

BIG INDUSTRIES URGED TO ADOPT CODES QUICKLY

Johnson Sends Advice
To Auto, Oil, Steel,
Coal Men

By James P. Selva
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Four of the nation's giant industries were urged today by the N.R.A. to agree quickly upon codes providing minimum wages and maximum hours for their multitudes of workers.

This advice, it was learned today in administration circles, went out to the coal, steel, oil and automobile industries from Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, as he opened a determined campaign to reach the bulk of the nation's employees by Labor Day. The oil industry alone of the four is operating under a temporary code.

Confers With Leaders
With secretary Frances Perkins at his side, Johnson conferred with spokesmen for the giant steel plants, while a deputy administrator talked with representatives of the automobile industry.

One of the most important steps has been called to meet tomorrow—a week earlier than planned—and on Thursday Johnson will seek action from the confining elements of the oil industry.

Upon these conferences depends much of the administrator's hopes of reaching his objective next month, and official sources said he was acting with the full support of the Roosevelt administration.

In a day of comparative inactivity on the part of the N.R.A. most of the business went on behind the scenes as Johnson sought to bring the basic industries back to the N.R.A. with his campaign for industry business power.

President Roosevelt called his recovery council into special session to effect definite means of coordinating the N.R.A.'s activity with the public works administration and the federal relief administration.

Five modified presidential agreements were approved for the Pacific Coast dried fruit, jewelry manufacturing, insulation board, and pipe, and porcelain enameling industries.

These agreements specifying minimum wages and maximum hours for the groups will remain effective pending hearings on the permanent codes.

In another significant move toward the goal of industrial stability, the National Labor Board dispatched Elmer A. Apples, New York commissioner of labor, to the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania, to investigate charges that operators had violated conditions of the agreement which ended the strike there.

The situation with reference to the four new in conference is this: Hearings have been held upon the coal, steel and oil codes but there is still a wide difference of opinion both between operating groups and between the industries themselves and Johnson.

The automobile code came in a few weeks ago and a hearing is set for Friday, but Henry Ford has not indicated his attitude toward the agreement submitted by the national automobile chamber of commerce.

It had no representative today at the conference with Robert W. Lee, the deputy administrator.

At the request of Johnson, the public works board allotted $300,000 to the N.R.A. to continue its work. It previously had been given $130,000.

GUNMAN TELLS POLICE ABOUT LOVE AFFAIR

John Tenuto Reveals
Plot To Murder
Hoodlum

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Back in Al Capone's heyday, gamblers killed each other over the skulls of liquor wars and over the skulls of money.

Today, an underworld affair of the heart precipitated an attempted assassination, a furious gun battle between police, mob hoodlums and a complete story of the whole thing from a captured hoodlum.

The man who violated the underworld's traditional code of silence and talked much was John Tenuto, 26, who is named as the "cause of it all" was Freda Platt, 26, Vincent Minnelli, 23, was the man who was "put on the spot" and not off.

Minnelli is a cousin of Leo Minnelli who is held with Mrs. Eleanor Darnman for the woman killing during a petty holdup of Gustave Hoch, elderly merchant.

Miss Platt, who is being held with a companion, Miss Julia Schneider, in whose apartment the attempted assassination occurred, denied her alleged role in the affair.

Her part, as related by Tenuto, who is on parole from the state penitentiary, was that of a little woman who tried of Minnelli's affections and contrived to have him removed by Louis Banerla, 25, said by officials to be a comparatively obscure well-to-do hoodlum, a former sweetheart to whom she had transferred her love.

Tenuto told how Banerla had called a council of war during which Minnelli's death sentence was returned.

He called us into a pool room last night," said Tenuto, "the told us about this fellow Minnelli. He said he wanted to give him the works and that his girl would help him. She was going to call Minnelli over to her house and then she was going to call us and let us know at the pool room.

"About 3 o'clock Banerla got the call. We hopped into two cars and went over to the Schneider girl's house. Banerla's girl let us in. Then Minnelli jumped out of the window and we let him have it."

A police squad came upon the scene just as Banerla and his accomplices were "letting him have it" but without the desired results.

From the window through which Minnelli had leaped came bursts of gun fire. Minnelli dozed down an alley unscathed. Later, he sought the comparative safety of a police station.

The police met the gunmen as they emerged from the Schneider home and scrambled into their waiting automobiles. A terrific fusillade ensued. The underworld mediators of domestic affairs escaped all but Tenuto who was pitched from the running board of one of the machines as it swerved abruptly.

It was not the first time Banerla had employed bullets in solving a love affair, police said. Two years ago he was arrested on a charge of shooting a 16-year-old girl.

The girl identified Banerla as her assailant and later repudiated her testimony.

DISTRICT COURT DECLARES NRA CONSTITUTIONAL

Principle Of Law Is Upheld By Justice
Joseph Cox

By Don J. Kirkley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The national recovery law, bulwark of President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation program, upheld in principle today by Justice Joseph Cox of the district court of Columbia supreme court.

Without passing formally on the question of the constitutionality of the law raised before him, the jurist denied a plea of Texas refiners for an injunction against the enforcement of Secretary Ickes' prohibiting interstate shipment of oil produced in violation of state regulations.

Justice Cox explained the denial was based on a belief that the court lacked the power to enjoin Ickes because he was carrying out an executive order of President Roosevelt. The judge added that even if he felt the court had such power it should hesitate to do so.

"Congress has declared that a great national emergency exists and has invested the president with extraordinary power to meet that emergency," Cox asserted in an oral opinion at the end of a day's hearing on the oil men's plea.

Touching upon the refiners' contention through F. W. Fisher, a Tyler, Texas, attorney, that the recovery act and the oil section specifically were unconstitutional and that Congress could not delegate its powers to Mr. Roosevelt, Cox went on:

"In the law, it is recognized that necessity confers many rights and privileges that the normal law might not be conferred. It is said that self-preservation is the first law and this principle in some degree at least, seems to extend to governments."

"There is another maxim that the safety of the people is the supreme law and all these must be considered in dealing with emergencies. All laws, including the constitution, it seems to me, should be read in emergencies in the light of the law of necessity."

Cox's remarks, Justice Cox said, should hesitate under such conditions to exercise any power they felt they might have, even if the powers were clear cut, so as not to "complicate the problems which the legislative and executive departments are trying to meet."

In answer to Fisher's plea that the oil production limitation orders of the Texas railroad commission, the basis of Secretary Ickes' order, were invalid, Justice Cox said that was a question to be determined by the courts in Texas.

Justice Cox gave notice he would appear.

A prompt answer to Fisher's contention was presented by Charles Fahy, acting solicitor of the interior department, which promulgated the petroleum order. He contended in a brief that both the order and the act were constitutional.

Fisher, attacking a selection of the recovery law giving the president authority to control oil shipments, contended most in this argument to that specific provision.

Kidnap Gang Escapes From Greatest Police "Dragnet" With $50,000 Ransom Money

RODNEY BRANDON

Resigns PUBLIC WELFARE DIRECTOR, QUILTS

Resignation Accepted
By Governor Horner,
Bowen Named

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Rodney H. Brandon of Batavia, director of the state department of public welfare for the past four and one-half years, today submitted his resignation to Governor Horner, who announced its acceptance at noon Sunday.

The Governor said A. L. Bowen, superintendent of charities in the department, would be acting director until he decided on a permanent successor to Brandon.

Reclassify Criminals
Brandon hereafter will remain with the department for some time, it was announced, as a member of the state welfare commission. In this capacity he is to direct the reclassification of criminals at the various penal institutions.

This work is in line with a recent legislative act. First term prisoners are to be assigned to Stateville, re-offenders to the old penitentiary at Joliet; those with insane tendencies to Chertok, and the old women's penitentiary at Joliet is to be used as a receiving station.

Prior to entering the service of the state Brandon was director of Mooseheart, an institution for orphans at Mooseheart, Ill., which is operated by the Moose lodge.

He has frequently been mentioned as a possible candidate for the republican nomination for Governor in 1936.

His departure from the governor's cabinet leaves but two of former governor Emmerson's appointees directing state departments. They are Barney Cohen, Chicago, director of labor, and John G. Millhouse, mines and minerals.

Millhouse is expected to remain in the cabinet for some time. The governor is known to be kindly disposed toward the director, who was passed several times during his heroic rescue work at the Mowqua mine disaster last Christmas and is still suffering from its effects.

Keeping Millhouse in office has the added advantage of making it unnecessary for the governor to offend either United Mine workers or Progressive Miners. Millhouse is affiliated with neither. The governor wants a practical mine man for the director's job. He has had difficulty in finding one who is not affiliated with one of the other of the contending mine factions.

GEORGE WILSON, OPAL WORRALL TO WED TODAY

Miss Opal Worrall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Worrall, of Route 1, Murrayville, will become the bride of George Wilson, son of Mrs. Laura Wilson, of west of the city, in a ceremony to be performed at twelve o'clock noon today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Worrall.

The Worrall home will be decorated in a color scheme of pink and white, with a profusion of cut flowers. The marriage vows will be read before an improvised altar by Rev. Francis E. Smith in the presence of eighteen members of the immediate families and a few friends.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. Lois Harney Hedin will give vocal numbers, accompanied by Miss Jessie Whorton. Miss Whorton will also play the wedding march.

Miss Gertrude Wilson, sister of the bridegroom, and Loretta Worrall, brother of the bride-elect, will act as best man for Mr. Wilson.

Miss Worrall will be attired in a gown of ice crepe, trimmed with egg-shell satin, with accessories to match. She will carry a bouquet of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a dinner will be served to the wedding party. The couple will then leave on an auto trip of a week or ten days to Chicago and on their return will be at home to their friends on a farm west of Jacksonville.

TORCH DEATH PUTS WIDOW BEHIND BARS

May Hanson Claims
She Is Innocent
Of Slaying

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Driving wildly through one of the greatest police dragnets today forced a gang of kidnap suspects today dodged 300 federal, city and county authorities directed by airplanes soaring overhead and apparently made good their escape.

The men, dumbfounded to learn they were in the midst of a trap when they met emissaries to receive a ransom payment, fled amid a tattoo of sub-machine gun bullets and answered police fire with pistol shots.

They carried with them a package representing the final payment of the ransom for the release of John Factor, Chicago speculator who was freed by abductors several weeks ago after a promise to pay additional money.

Obtain $50,000
The Herald and Examiner said it learned from authentic sources that the men obtained about $50,000 in ransom package. The money, the paper said, was furnished the federal bureau of investigation by Factor to enable the department to catch the abductors with the evidence. Officials declined to comment.

Factor worked with authorities after his release and today the massive trap was sprung—unsuccessfully. The kidnapers were to meet Factor's messenger at a barbecue stand near suburban Le Grange.

For makes about police forces massed at the appointed time. Overhead dropped three airplanes equipped with short wave wireless to direct activities of the dozens of squad cars scattered along the highways.

At the arrangement, a taxi cab drove to the barbecue stand. In it was a diminutive policeman dressed as a messenger boy. The driver dressed as a cab driver was another officer. A sedan trailed the taxi.

The messenger got out, gave the kidnapers the ransom signal and they took the package. Then patrolman Frank McKenna, the "messenger" gave another signal. Overhead the men in the planes saw it through glasses and flashed word to all squads.

At the same time a "gun" fire of the tax spotted machine gun bullets at them and was answered by a volley of pistol shots. One of the extremists was believed wounded. The car was driven into a woods where it later was found abandoned.

At the same time a "gun" fire was sent out that another car carrying other suspected members of the kidnap gang was cruising in the area.

The big dragnet closed in on the car, directed by wireless messages from three army airplanes overhead attempting to trace the flight of the other car and the patch of the fugitives.

Traffic, clogged by incoming World's Fair visitors, was marred for miles as police blocked off the area of the search. An entire square mile of underbrush was combed. The result was the arrest of two men who claimed to be underworld "fixes," Vernon Miller, one of the notorious Harvey Bailey gang, Tommy Touhy, brother of Roger, held for the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., St. Paul brewer, and George Kelly, said by authorities to be a racketeer.

The missing automobile carrying other suspects bore a Texas license plate authorities said had been issued to Mrs. Ora L. Shannon, of Paradise, Texas. It was at Paradise that Bailey, a member of the Shannon family and another person were arrested in connection with the Urschel case.

Miller and Bailey, federal authorities said, were also suspected in the machine gun slaying of Frank Nash, escaped convict, and four peace officers returning him to prison. The killings occurred at Kansas City a few weeks ago.

Police said men meeting descriptions of Kelly and Miller fitted two men in the car. A woman also was reported as a passenger.

State police kept close watch over highways leading into the state as darkness fell and the peace officers returned to their posts. The killings occurred at Kansas City a few weeks ago.

Four Chicago boys and a farmer threw light on the escape of one of the two men who received the decoy package.

The boys were camped near the forest preserve where the abandoned sedan was found. They said the car blew suddenly into a ditch and skidded a tire. The two men fled—one of them throwing away his hat and coat. The whole problem in his mind, apparently "evaporated in thin air."

Apparently the other forced a creek to elude the followers. A farmer reported that a man bearing the description of the extremist confronted him with a story that he had just been caught in the forest preserve with another man's wife and pleaded that the farmer take him into the city to "save" his kiddies from a broken home.

The farmer, impressed by the man's apparent frankness, drove the man into the city and he boarded a street car.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Police tonight held 19-year-old Bruce Thompson without charge in their investigation of the "torch death" of Earl Hanson, pending comparison of his finger prints with those found on a porcelain pan from which it is believed gasoline was thrown on the automobile in which Hanson was burned.

The evidence consisted of a porcelain wash basin and a box of matches found near the place where Earl Hanson died in the flames that engulfed his automobile. That was in the driveway of his former wife's home a few minutes after he had left his 12-year-old daughter, June, there.

Officials theorized some one had used the porcelain basin to dash gasoline on Hanson, 42, and had then ignited his saturated clothing with a single match.

Mrs. Hanson admitted she had used the basin to feed her chickens some time before Hanson's death that she had bought a small box of matches similar to those found two days ago, and that she had purchased a quart of gasoline Sunday.

She had used it to start a car, she declared. Nelson McColl, operator of a gasoline station near the Hanson home, said Mrs. Hanson had purchased the fuel from him, and that she wanted to use it to start her automobile.

"I did not see her again until after the fire," McColl said. "I asked her how it happened and she said she didn't know. McColl was released."

Mrs. Hanson's eyebrows were singed. She explained that thus: "I was in the basement when the fire broke out in the car. I naturally feared for my daughter, June. I thought she might be in the car. I got too close to the flames in trying to look in and that is how I happened to get singed."

She did not know, she declared, how the porcelain basin and the box of matches happened to be found near the death scene.

Police were examining the basin for fingerprints, also the house dress which Mrs. Hanson wore the day of Hanson's death. The dress was found at the home of a sister.

Taken from her jail cell to the place where the investigation was being conducted, Mrs. Hanson continued to declare her innocence. She was returned to the jail.

Prosecutor Nash announced that if any attempt were made to obtain her release on a writ he would immediately charge her with murder. The grand jury is not in session and an inquest has been continued until later in the week.

Mrs. Hanson told Nash that her marital life had not been happy, that she and Hanson had frequently quarreled.

At the request of Nash, Mrs. Hanson was examined by Dr. G. W. F. Allen. He reported she was sane.

H. C. JAQUITH IS IMPRESSED WITH EAST RECOVERY

Illinois College President
Gives Views on Business
In Country

Impressed with business recovery in the east, President H. C. Jaquith, of Illinois College, arrived here Sunday to begin his duties as president of the college, bringing with him his wife and two children.

Business centers are beginning already to employ more men a fact which is partially in Dr. Jaquith's opinion, attributed to the N. R. A. campaign, and partially to the increasing buying power of the middle class.

Although there is considerable misunderstanding and confusion prevailing at present as to exactly what is meant by the wording of the National Recovery Act, there has been a spontaneous optimism of its aims, and efforts expended to meet the demands of the act in most of the manufacturing cities.

Dr. Jaquith regards the present situation as highly hopeful, probably more hopeful than it has been for some time. The whole problem in his mind, apparently "evaporated in thin air."

Apparently the other forced a creek to elude the followers. A farmer reported that a man bearing the description of the extremist confronted him with a story that he had just been caught in the forest preserve with another man's wife and pleaded that the farmer take him into the city to "save" his kiddies from a broken home.

ruling that the retail sales tax law is constitutional. Although most of the business men had filled in their returns prior to Saturday most of them delayed mailing them until after Judge L. E. Stone's decision on the validity of the measure.

There was a rush for blanks here Monday and Tuesday as some of the merchants who had not attended to the matter got busy. Several public offices reported that their supply of sales tax blanks was exhausted.

There is no accurate method of a certifying the amount of tax Jacksonville merchants will pay for July but it is believed the amount will run into the thousands of dollars.

YANKEES WAYLAY BROWNS 8 TO 5

St. Louis, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The New York Yankees, opening their final western jaunt of the season 5½ games behind the league leading Washington Senators, put on one of their old fashioned "big" Yankee innings to defeat the Browns 8 to 5 in the first game of their series. Washington also won and the Yanks place in the pennant struggle remained unchanged.

The Yanks cuffed young Jack Knott around to score five runs in the fourth inning. Then with the game apparently on ice, Johnny Allen weakened and had to be removed in the seventh. The veteran Herb Pennock held the Browns in check the rest of the way.

Babe Ruth, who declared himself "benched" for a two day rest with the consent of manager Joe McCarthy, was pressed into service on the first day of it as a pinch hitter in the eighth. He came through with a double that hammered in a Yankee run.

Lou Gehrig was in there all the way, playing his 1306th consecutive game and putting him in line to tie Everett Scott's all-time major league durability record tomorrow. Lou led the Yankee attack with three singles.

Score:

Chicago, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Washington's league-leading Senators opened their final invasion of the west this year with a 5 to 1 victory over the White Sox today as Alvin Crowder, ace right-hander, kept nine Chicagoans well-spaced. The Senators bunched four of their nine hits to score three runs off their former mate, Sam Jones, in the sixth inning and wipe out an early 1 to 0 Chicago lead as they added their final two runs on three more hits in the eighth.

Crowder, who in addition to his good pitching had a perfect day at the plate with a double, two singles and a walk, scored the first runs in both the sixth and eighth innings.

In this fair land of ours,
Almost forgotten powers
Are borne by thee;

Hopes that we thought had died.

Our Nation trusts to thee,
Guardian of liberty,
You're the way,
We'll do our part and more,
Till all our woes are o'er,
And praise from shore to shore,
